UPDATE TO ALL FAMILY AND FRIENDS

Hello, first an update about the respiratory outbreak. The residents who have respiratory symptoms remain in isolation. We have no new cases today which is great news and a reflection on the diligence of the staff who are working very hard. Those residents with symptoms are feeling a better today but must still remain in isolation.

The window visit schedule is coming together with some families already having been able to connect with their loved ones in this innovative way. The feedback has been very positive and the families very appreciative. We will continue to work on scheduling these important visits.

Thank you for your continued support as we work together to keep the people who live and work at St. Pat's safe.
